

“In Chambers Of Sonic Disgust” is the 16th studio album from Denmark’s death metal export, Illdisposed. It is the most ambitious and creative Illdisposed album to date, revealing a band that has been going through several crises the past four years. Beginning with the Covid 19 pandemic and all the impact it had on the music industry – leading up to illness of the worst possible character within the band. It is an honest album full of anger, frustration and sadness. Crisis and struggle transcribed to music. Mixed and mastered by Tue Madsen, giving the album just the right expression. “In Chambers Of Sonic Disgust” will be available as Digipak CD and vinyl LP and will be available on all digital platforms.

Since the beginning of the 90's Illdisposed have been one of the top bands of the Nordic death metal scene and have released 16 albums. Not denying their death metal roots their brand new offering "In Chambers Of Sonic Disgust" will meet all expectations. However, Illdisposed have also developed their own form of death metal with groovy rhythms, melodic but still hard hitting riffs and a massive wall of sound with a unique subwoofer vocal in focus.

The experience gained from the production of 16 albums and the band's numerous shows all over Europe and as far away as New Zealand says it all: Illdisposed know what it's all about.

Over the years their success has not just been restricted to the metal scene: The last seven albums entered the official Danish album charts at position 85, 58, 44, 32, 78, 78 and 60 which made Illdisposed the first Danish death metal band with such high chart entries. The video to "Still Sane" was the most wanted metal video on VIVA Plus and the track "Dark" was featured on the soundtrack to the horror blockbuster SAW.

Not just scene experts should have recognized the name Illdisposed as a firm synonym for "finest metal quality" by now "In Chambers Of Sonic Disgust" will most certainly secure the Danes a top position of the European metal scene!
